

I'm not robot!

On Monday, December 1, 1969, Judge William Keene signed an order, requested by Attorney Richard Cabellero, authorizing the removal of Sadie Mae Glutz, aka Susan Atkins, from the Spaulding Institute, between the hours of 2:30pm and 10:00pm. Atkins was taken to 425 South Beverly Boulevard, Beverly Hills -- the law offices of Paul Carlson -- where she was interviewed on tape by Carlson and Cabellero for the purpose of determining a plea. The following is the transcript of the taped interview.

SUSAN ATKINS: About two months prior to meeting him I was in an apartment in San Francisco and I was on LSD up on the roof and I just looked at the city and I couldn't handle it. And I remember reaching up with my hands and there was no sky, just blue in my hands, and there was no depth to it.

PAUL CARUSO: You were close to the sky?

SUSAN ATKINS: Yes, and I asked if God, just stop this world and take me off of it. About two months later, after traveling around for two or three months, I ended up in a house in San Francisco on Line Street. It was primarily dope dealers. I got involved with them then one day a little man came in with a guitar and started singing for a group of us that were together. And he sang, the song that hit me hardest was "The Shadow of His Smile" and he was nice. We were just more and he mentioned me. I was just absolutely in love with him. I didn't know him and I also felt I was in competition with him, because he got more attention than I did.

PAUL CARUSO: That's normal.

SUSAN ATKINS: And I asked him if I could play his guitar. Now, I didn't know how to play the guitar. I knew maybe one or two chords on the guitar. And he said to me, sure, and handed me his guitar. And I looked at it and I thought to myself, I don't say it, I said I can't play this and he turned around and he looked at me, straight in the eye, and said you can play that if you want to. And immediately I knew he was in my head and, wow, nothing like this ever happened before and it blew my mind. I was just with him from then on.

PAUL CARUSO: What was his name?

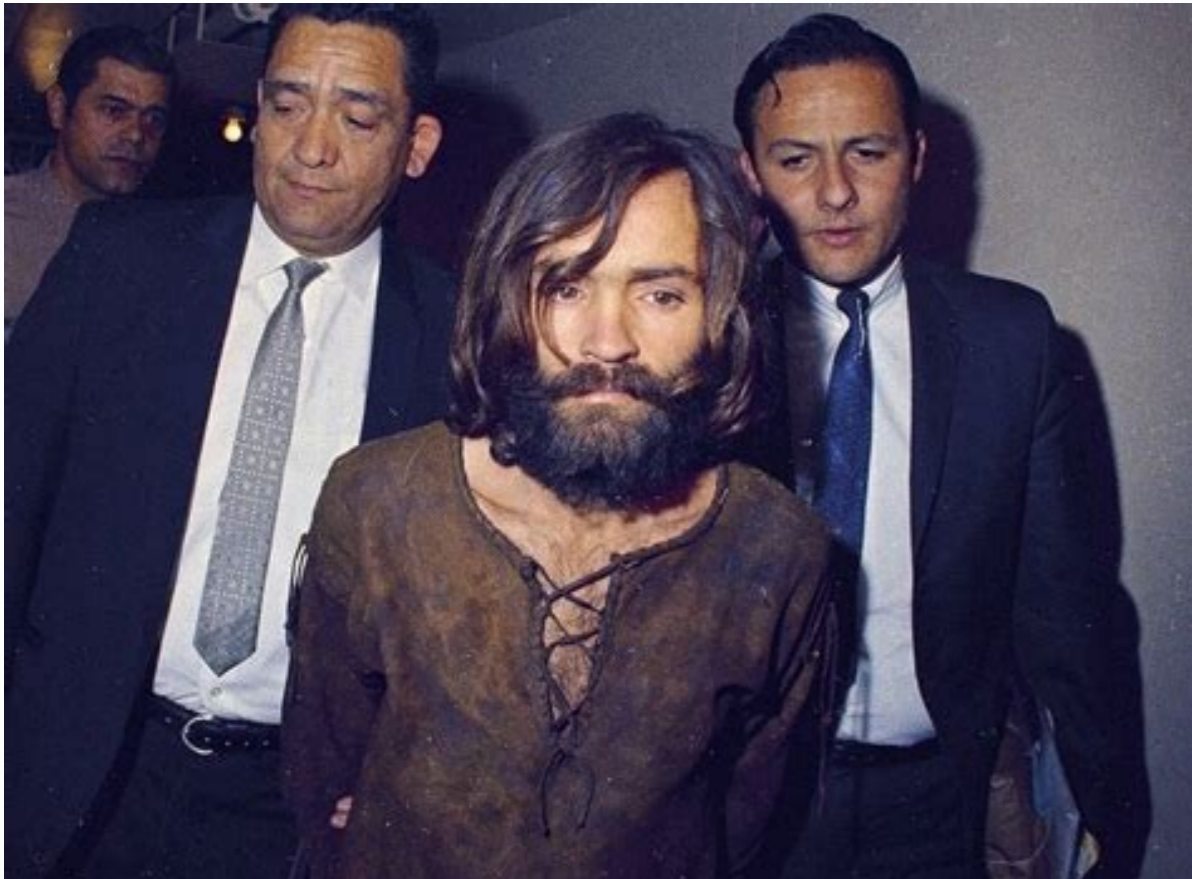

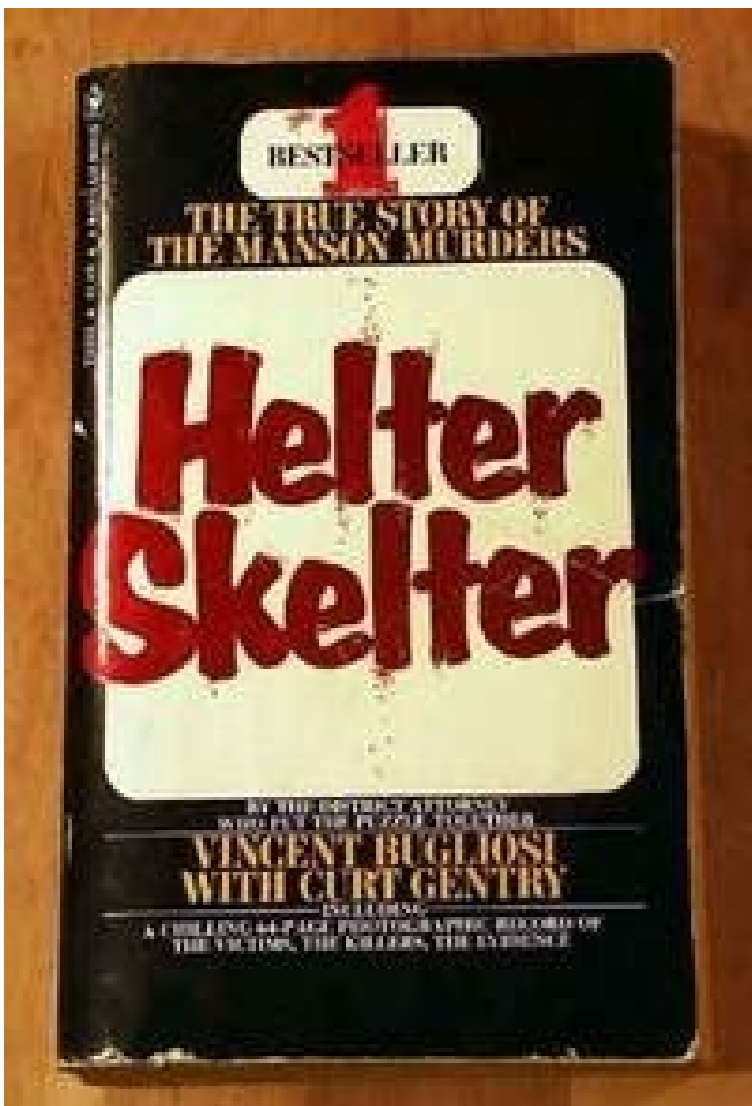

SUSAN ATKINS: Charles Manson.

PAUL CARUSO: You say he was a short man?

SUSAN ATKINS: Yes.

PAUL CARUSO: How old a man is he?

SUSAN ATKINS: 36, 37 years old.

brutal, Random murders captured titles across America. A famous actress (and her unborn son), a heir of a coffee fortune, a supermarket owner and his wife were among the seven victims. A subtle trail of circumstances eventually linked Tate-Lebianca murders to Charles Manson, an aspiring pop singer of small talents living in the desert with his "family" of young women and devoted men. What was his grip on them? And what was the motivation behind this ferocity? In the public imagination, over time, the case has assumed the proportions of the myth. The murders marked the end of the 1960s and became an immediate symbol of the darker lower part of that time. Vincent Bugliosi was the attorney's attorney in Manson's trial, and this book is his fascinating account of how he built his case from what a defense attorney fired as only "two fingerprints and Vince Bugliosi". The meticulous investigative work with which history begins, the prosecutor's opinion of a complex trial for murder, the reconstruction of Manson philosophy inculcated in his fervent followers - these elements make a real crime classic. Helter Skelter is not simply a case of fascinating and dramatic murder in the classroom, but also in the words of the new Republic, a "social document of rare importance". The book recounts and assesses the investigation, arrest, and prosecution of Charles Manson and his followers for the notorious 1969 murders of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca, actress Sharon Tate, and several others. The book takes its title from the apocalyptic race war that Manson believed would occur, which in turn took its name from the song eAAAHelter SkeltereAAA by the Beatles. Manson had been particularly fascinated by the BeatleseAAA White Album, from which the song came. About the Author Vincent T. Bugliosi Jr. (August 18, 1934 eAAA June 6, 2015) was an American attorney and New York Times, bestselling author. During his eight years in the Los Angeles County District AttorneyeAAA's Office, he successfully prosecuted 105 out of 106 felony jury trials, which included 21 murder convictions, and gained guilty verdicts in each case. He was best known for prosecuting Charles Manson and other defendants accused of the TateeAAALaBianca murders of August 9eAAA10, 1969. Although Manson did not physically participate in the murders, Bugliosi used circumstantial evidence to show that he had orchestrated the killings. Curtis Marsena eAAACurteAAA Gentry (June 13, 1931 eAAA July 10, 2014) was an American writer, born in Lamar, Colorado. He is best known for co-authoring, with Vincent Bugliosi, the 1974 book Helter Skelter, which detailed the Charles Manson murders. Gentry lived in San Francisco, California. Gentry died, aged 83, on July 10, 2014, in San Francisco. Download Helter Skelter PDF Get this Book Read also: also:
